

DELPHI DISPLAY SYSTEMS ONLINE PRIVACY STATEMENT

AS OF OCTOBER 1, 2013

It is as critical as ever, especially given the digital age we live in, to undertake at all times to maintain the trust of colleagues, collaborators, customers and other business constituents. That said, your privacy is important to Delphi.

This Statement reflects the information practices for Delphi's Web site. Several general areas we are trying to address with the Statement are:

- The type of information about our Web site's users is gathered and tracked;
- How others' information is used, shared or otherwise processed offline;
- How you contact us;
- The relationship and use and direction of third party links; and
- How to remove or change your personal information.

Despite the security procedures we employ, you should be aware that it is impossible to guarantee the security of information that you transmit to us via the Internet.

We will, to the extent possible, control your personal information, and, except as otherwise set forth in this Privacy Policy, we will not disclose your personal information to third parties. Although we are committed to maintaining the confidentiality of your personal information, if required by law, we reserve the right to disclose such information without first obtaining your consent. From time to time, we may supplement this Statement with additional information relating to a particular interaction we have with you.

Collection of Personal Information

You may, for any of several reasons and situations, choose to give us personal information. For example, to communicate with you, to order a product or process an order, to register for a service, or to do business with us if you are a supplier or a business partner. You may share a description of your education and work experience in connection with a job opening at Delphi for which you wish to be considered. If you tell us that you do not want us to use your information to make further contact with you beyond fulfilling your request, we will respect your wishes.

We may also collect information relating to your use of our Web site through the use of various technologies. For example, when you visit our Web site, we may log certain information that your browser sends us, such as your IP address, browser type and language, access time, and referring Web site addresses, and we may collect information about the pages you view within our sites and other actions you take while visiting us. In addition, some of the software products employed in our hardware may include technologies that allow Delphi to collect certain information about various matters like product use. We may also use such technologies to determine whether you've opened an e-mail or clicked on a link contained in an e-mail. Collecting information in this manner allows us to collect statistics about the usage and effectiveness of our Web site, personalize your experience and tailor our interactions with you. For details regarding the technologies we employ, see the information about cookies and other technologies below.

From time to time, we may also collect information that pertains to you indirectly through other sources, such as list vendors. When we do so, we ask the vendors to confirm that the information was legally acquired by the third party and that we have the right to obtain it from them and use it.

The information that we collect, either directly or indirectly, may be combined to help us improve its overall accuracy and completeness and to help us better tailor our interactions with you.

Personal Information

If you request something from Delphi, we will use the information you provide to fulfill your request. To help us do this, we may share information with others, for instance, Delphi's business partners, financial institutions, shipping companies, or postal or government authorities, such as Customs authorities, involved in fulfillment. In connection with a transaction, we may also contact you as part of our customer satisfaction surveys or for market research purposes.

We may use information we collect about you to provide you with a personalized experience on our Web site, such as providing you with content in which you may be interested and making navigation on our sites easier.

We may also use your personal information to support products or services you have obtained from us, such as notifying you of a product update or fix.

If we ever should use "chat sessions," we will use personal information you provide via these sessions in accordance with this Privacy Statement.

In the course of providing technical support to you, we may sometimes have incidental access to data that you have provided to us or data that is located on your system. This data may contain information about you, your organization's employees, customers, partners, or suppliers. This Privacy Statement does not apply to our access to or handling of this information; the conditions regarding the handling and processing of that data is covered by the applicable Terms of Use or other agreements between you and Delphi.

The information you provide to Delphi, as well as the information we have collected about you indirectly, may be used by Delphi for marketing purposes. However, we will undertake to offer you the opportunity to choose whether or not to have your information used in this way. You may at any time choose not to receive marketing materials from us by following the unsubscribe instructions included in each e-mail you may receive, by indicating so when we call you, or by contacting us directly (please refer to "Privacy Questions and Access" below).

Some of our offerings may be co-branded, that is sponsored by both Delphi and third parties. If you sign up for these offerings, be aware that your information may also be collected by and shared with those third parties. We encourage you to familiarize yourself with their privacy policies to gain an understanding of the manner in which they will handle information about you.

If you choose to “Email This Page” to a friend or colleague, we will ask for their name and e-mail address. We will automatically send a one-time e-mail sharing the page you indicated, but will not use that information for other purposes.

In connection with a job application or inquiry, whether advertised on a Delphi Web site or otherwise, you may provide us with information about yourself, such as a resume. We may use this information throughout Delphi in order to address your inquiry or consider you for employment purposes. Unless you tell us not to do so, we may keep the information for future consideration.

Certain online transactions may involve you calling us or us calling you. They may also involve online chats. Please be aware that Delphi may monitor and in some cases record such interactions.

To the extent that Delphi provides any “social computing tools” to enable online sharing and collaboration among members who have registered to use them, such as forums, blogs and other social media platforms, you may be asked to provide certain personal information. Registration information will be subject to and protected in accordance with this Privacy Statement, except for the information that is automatically made available to other participants as part of your profile. These applications and tools may also include supplemental privacy statements with specific information about collection and handling practices. Read those supplemental statements to understand what the tools and applications may do.

Any other content you post, such as pictures, information, opinions, or any other type of personal information that you make available to other participants on these social platforms or applications, is not subject to this Privacy Statement.

We may also use or share your information to protect the rights or property of Delphi, our business partners, suppliers, clients, or others when we have reasonable grounds to believe that such rights or property have been or could be affected. In addition, we reserve the right to disclose your personal information as required by law and when we believe that disclosure is necessary to protect our rights, or the rights of others, or to comply with a judicial proceeding, court order, or legal process served on our Web sites.

If you represent a Delphi business partner, you may visit a Delphi Web site intended specifically for Delphi business partners. We may use information provided on that site to administer and develop our business relationship with you, the business partner you represent, and Delphi business partners generally. For instance, this may involve using your information to send you details of Delphi business partner programs. It may also include sharing certain information with other business partners (subject to any confidentiality obligations that may exist), or Delphi customers or prospects. In connection with a particular transaction or program, we may also contact you as part of customer satisfaction surveys or for market research purposes.

If you represent a Delphi supplier, you may visit a Delphi Web site intended specifically for use by Delphi suppliers. We may use the information provided on that site in connection with entering into or performing a transaction with you. For example, this may include sharing information with other parts of Delphi, Delphi's business partners, customers, shipping companies, financial institutions and postal or government authorities involved in fulfillment. It may also be used to administer and develop our relationship with you, the supplier you represent, and other Delphi suppliers generally.

Delphi may share information about you within Delphi and transfer it to countries in the world where we do business in connection with the uses identified above and in accordance with this Privacy Statement. From time to time, we may disclose information that identifies you at an individual level and which we collected on our Web sites to other non-Delphi entities that are not acting as our suppliers, such as our third party distributors or business partners. Except as described in this Privacy Statement, we will only do so with your prior consent. We do not sell or lease such information however.

Circumstances may arise where, whether for strategic or other business reasons, Delphi decides to sell, buy, merge or otherwise reorganize businesses in some countries. Such a transaction may involve the disclosure of personal information to prospective or actual purchasers, or the receipt of such information from sellers. It is Delphi's practice to seek appropriate protection for information in these types of transactions.

Please be aware that in certain circumstances, personal information may be subject to disclosure to government agencies pursuant to judicial proceeding, court order, or legal process. We may also share your information to protect the rights or property of Delphi, our business partners, suppliers or clients, and others when we have reasonable grounds to believe that such rights or property have been or could be affected.

Information Security and Accuracy

We intend to protect your personal information and to maintain its accuracy. Delphi implements reasonable physical, administrative and technical safeguards to help us protect your personal information from unauthorized access, use and disclosure. For example, we encrypt certain sensitive personal information such as credit card information when we transmit such information over the Internet. We also require that our suppliers protect such information from unauthorized access, use and disclosure.

Retention

We will retain your registration information. Generally, Delphi will keep the information that you provide us for as long as is reasonably necessary to achieve the purpose for which you provided it to us, or to the extent necessary for Delphi to protect its rights, or as required by applicable laws. Further, to the extent needed, we will retain the information for as long as your account is active or as needed to provide you services. If you wish to request that we no longer use your registration information to provide you services, please contact us. We will have and reserve the right to retain and use your registration information as necessary to comply with our legal obligations, resolve disputes, and enforce our agreements.

Cookies, Web Beacons and Other Technologies

As mentioned above, we collect information from your visits to our Web site through the use of various technologies, including one called "cookies." A cookie is a piece of data that a Web site can send to your browser, which may then be stored on your computer as a tag that identifies your computer. While cookies are often only used to measure Web site usage and effectiveness and to allow for ease of navigation or use and, as such, are not associated with any personal information, they are also used at times to personalize a known visitor's experience to a Web site by being associated with profile information or user preferences.

Most browsers, by default, automatically permit cookies, but also give you the ability to control the majority of cookies, including whether or not to accept them and how to remove them. Look under the heading "Tools" (or similar heading) in your particular browser for information about controlling cookies. You can set your browser in most instances to notify you before you receive a cookie, giving you the chance to decide whether to accept it or not. You can also generally set your browser to turn off cookies. Cookies in our software products can be turned off in the product itself. If you block, turn off or otherwise reject our cookies, some Web pages may not display properly or you will not be able, for instance, to use any Web site services that require you to sign in. Delphi's web site may also use Web beacon or other technologies to better tailor those sites to provide better customer service. When a visitor accesses these pages, a non-identifiable notice of that visit is generated which may be processed by us or by our suppliers. These Web beacons usually work in conjunction with cookies. If you don't want your cookie information to be associated with your visits to these pages or use of these products, you can set your browser to turn off cookies or turn off cookies in the product itself, respectively. If you turn off cookies, Web beacon and other technologies will still detect visits to these pages; however, they will not be associated with information otherwise stored in cookies. We may also include Web beacons in marketing e-mail messages or our newsletters in order to determine whether messages have been opened and links contained within clicked on. We do not control third party tracking technologies.

Online Advertising

Delphi does not deliver third party online advertisements on our Web sites but we may advertise our products and services on others' Web sites. Please familiarize yourself with those Web site operators' or network advertisers' privacy policies to understand their practices relating to advertising, including what type of information they may collect about your Internet usage. Delphi does not provide any information relating to your usage of Delphi Web sites to Web site operators or network advertisers. We may also engage with certain third parties to manage some of our advertising on other sites. These third parties may use cookies and Web beacons to collect information (such as your IP address) about your activities on Delphi's and others' Web sites to provide you targeted Delphi advertisements based upon your interests.

Links to Non-Delphi Web Sites and Third Party Applications

For your convenience, our website may contain links to third party websites whose information practices may be different from ours and which are governed by their own privacy procedures, policies and security measures. For instance, we may provide links to product literature, reviews, articles and events offered or hosted by third parties. If you choose to visit any linked websites, you should be certain that you understand the applicable privacy policies, data protection standards and security procedures before you submit any information via those sites, as we have no control over data submitted to, or collected by, these third parties.

Delphi is not responsible for the privacy practices or the content of those other Web sites.

Notification of Changes

We will post a notice for 30 days at the top of this page notifying users when this Privacy Statement is updated or modified in a material way. If we are going to use your personal information in a manner different from that stated at the time of collection, we will notify you, and you will have a choice as to whether or not we can use your personal information in such a way.

Privacy Questions and Access

If you have a question about this Privacy Statement or Delphi's handling of your information, you can send an email to info@delphidisplay.com or contact us at: Delphi Display Systems, Inc., 3160 Pullman Street, Costa Mesa, CA 92626

In certain cases, you may have the ability to view or edit your personal information online. In the event your information is not accessible online, and you wish to obtain a copy of particular information you provided to Delphi, or if you become aware the information is incorrect and you would like us to correct it, please contact us as indicated above.

Before Delphi is able to provide you with any information or correct any inaccuracies, however, we may ask you to verify your identity and to provide other details to help us to respond to your request. If you no longer wish to receive marketing e-mails from Delphi, please send an e-mail to info@delphidisplay.com and follow the unsubscribe instructions included in each marketing email.